

MAKE A TRADE

Players for players. Nothing moves until the other club accepts — then it’s live and logged.

Offer players, weigh what other clubs send you, and close the deal — all in the Trade Hub. The league office has no say in the deal itself: the cap and roster checks run the instant it’s accepted.

WHERE IT LIVES

Get in — it’s management-only

Two front offices meet here. The sidebar badge counts offers waiting on you, and everything on the page is private to your club’s Owner, GM and AGM.

1 Open Team HQ → Trade Hub

In the hub sidebar, under Team HQ, open Trade Hub. A yellow badge there is the number of offers other clubs have sent you.

2 Read what’s waiting

Incoming offers sit at the top, each with what you receive, what you send, the other club’s note, and three buttons. Offers you’ve sent follows, and the builder is below.

CONFIDENTIAL

The page says it plainly: “Confidential to management. Offers and notes are visible to your Owner, GM, and AGM (Rule 2.3).” None of it is public.

Why this works for both sides...

Propose to club

The offer goes to the other club's management and only executes when they accept. Owner/GM/AGM can't be traded. Players only — draft picks are not trade assets in the basic format (Rule 2.3).

DONE · BOTH ROSTERS UPDATE AT ONCE

7 Counter

Press Counter to load their offer, mirrored, into your builder — what they asked for goes in your column, what they offered in theirs. Adjust it and Propose it back.

8 Decline

Press Decline to send it back. No confirm — the toast reads “Offer declined” and the other club is told.

9 Accept

Press Accept, then confirm. “The players change hands immediately and it’s logged.” You get “Trade completed — rosters updated for both clubs”, the transaction log posts itself, and the new player is eligible from your next game.

Advertise a player — on the Roster page

The block isn't set in the Trade Hub. You list players on Roster, and other front offices see who is available.

	GlassEater	RD		$3M	1 yr	21		To		To block	Trade	Waive
	CellyKing	RD		$1.75M	1 yr	12		To camp	Off block	Trade	Waive

10 List with To block

On a player's row press To block to advertise him; the status flips to On block and Off block takes it down. Trade on any row opens the hub with that player already in your column.

11 Management is protected

Owner, GM and AGM rows read “Management contract – protected” – no block, trade or waive. Everyone else, including your camp players and depth placements, can be traded.

■ RULES 2.1 • 2.6

When a seat needs sign-off

An Owner can set a GM's or AGM's Trade Hub to Owner approves. Then every button on the page queues instead of acting.

12 The manager's view

A banner sits on the page — “ItzPeakz approves trade hub moves.” Each button toasts “Sent to the Owner for approval...” and the move waits, with Withdraw beside it. The Owner decides at Team HQ → Management → Approvals.

RULE 2.6

12 proves trade hub moves

Everything you do on this page is sent to the Owner and takes effect only when they approve it (Rule 2.6). You are told either way.

OWNER-APPROVES • THE MANAGER'S BANNER AND THE WAITING MOVE

WATCH OUT

Accept is final and immediate — there is no league-office approval step, and the builder shows no cap preview. The cap and roster checks run when the other club accepts: a deal that would put a club over the $50M cap, or leave it unable to ice a full lineup, is refused right there (Rules 2.1, 2.5). The transactions department can still reverse a trade that isn't a real hockey deal (Rule 2.3).

GOOD TO KNOW

All movement — trades, waivers and waived-player signings — closes at midnight at the end of the Friday of week 4, the movement deadline; after that rosters freeze through the playoffs (Rule 2.4). A traded player keeps his one-season deal and his games-played count, so he is as playoff-eligible on his new club as he was on his old one (Rule 8.3).
